Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: The amendment will be entered into the record because no new matter is raised. Applicant's remarks are not persuasive. Applicant's remarks are fully considered but are not persuasive for the reasons previously made of record in the final rejection (see pages 3-9). Additionally, Applicant is arguing the validity of patent, Murad Patent No. 5962517. Examiner will not comment on an issued patent. Applicant argues that Murad (Pat. No. '163) does not teach a composition sibstantially free of vitamin A nor teaches a composition comprising carotene. Examiner does not agree with the argument. Murad (Pat. No. '163) teaches a composition that contains a source of Vitamin A which is derived from beta-carotene. Thus the composition of Murad does contain betacarotene. Applicant's attention is directed to col. 1, lines 44-48. Further more, Murad in Pat No. 5962517 teaches beta-carotene is present in the composition in about 0.1 to 10 weight percent (see col. 4, lines 56-65). Further Applicant claims that the composition is substantially free of Vitamin A or Vitamin A acid. However, if a composition contains carotene this composition is not substantially free of Vitamin A or its derivatives, because carotene is a precusor of Vitamin A, therefore, the composition is not substantially free of Vitamin A or its derivatives. Applicant further discusses that the instant claims are topical compositions to be used on the skins and they will not encounter the necesssary enzymes to convert carotene into vitamin A. Applicant's attention is drawn to Murad (Pat. No. 6630163 B1) which teaches a topical formulation which contains Vitamin A (beta-carotene). Applicant also discusses each reference separately and not combined with each other. Applicant is reminded that the obviousness rejection is not an anticipation rejection. Allreferences should be considered in combination with each other. Therefore, Applicant's arguments are not found persuasive. Further, all mentioned references meet the instant claims and the claims remain rejected over the prior arts. Applicant's remarks related to the obviation of the rejection by such arguments, and remarks, are not persuasive. For the reasons above claims 1-9 remain rejected and for the reasons of record set forth in the final rejection of October 30, 2008.
